

Kirkland Classic Volunteer Opportunities

The United States Tennis Association, Tennis Tournaments Limited and Central Park Tennis Club are thrilled to bring back professional tennis to the Pacific Northwest after more than a decade. Over 64 professional women from around the world will play for their share of the $50,000 prize purse, and compete to position themselves for the Australian Open.

Challenger tournaments are sponsored in part by the United States Tennis Association (USTA) and feature the clash of the Women's Tennis Association (WTA) tour veterans and the best in brightest new talent in the tennis world today competing for valuable WTA computer points and prize money.

The only way CPTC can pull off a successful event is gathering great volunteers to work with us and our staff. While this event is managed by Tennis Tournaments LLC and the USTA, Central Park is responsible for everything associated with the site itself. Our main goal is to make sure the players, the officials and the USTA staff know that CPTC can host premier tennis in the PNW.

The event will start Sunday, October 4th, and conclude with finals on October 10th and 11th. If you are interested and know that you will be available for days prior, during and after the event, we would appreciate your time and your willingness to get involved. We have listed the potential committees below. Once we have made a final determination of the all the committees we definitely need, we will contact you with the next steps.
