FOOD & BEVERAGE NEWS

Dear Members,

As I am sure you have noticed, we have had a large turnover in the restaurant's wait staff. Most of our long time employees have graduated, relocated or moved on from the Country Club. The new staff however is a great bunch. They are very polite and personable. We will start to introduce them to our situational training program in order to prepare them to provide you with exceptional service. I am certain you will grow to have the same relationships shared with our former wait staff. Don't forget to book your holiday parties with our event planner Jessica Gustine. The event planning book is quickly filling up, but there is still time.

Sincerely,
Aaron Atkinson
Food and Beverage Director

CHEF WILL'S BILL OF FARE

Dear Esteemed Members,

I hope everyone has been enjoying their lunches, dinners, and buffets. I care about what you think and would greatly appreciate any feedback you can lend to me and my staff. I have started a new program called: Dueling Chefs. Any member of the kitchen staff who wants to participate can come up with and submit a dinner special to be voted on by the department heads at our weekly meetings. Starting November 12, 2015, we will have two specials available on Thursday and Friday. The special with the most orders will win bragging rights in the kitchen and will receive a cash bonus from me. Come on out and let the chefs duel! Thank you so much for your support!

GCC BOOK CLUB!

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 4TH
AT 10:30AM

Dr. Long will be discussing her book, America's Forgotten Student Population - Creating a Path to College Success for GED Completers, at the Gainesville Country Club on December 4, 2015 at 10:30am.

All are invited to join the GCC Book Club for this informative discussion.

Dr. Angela Long serves as an independent researcher, educator, and consultant on nontraditional student retention issues in higher education. She helped found the Pathway Scholars Program at Santa Fe College in Gainesville, Florida. The program was the first of its kind aimed at increasing the persistence and retention rates of students with GEDs at the postsecondary level. Angela is the author of Five Factors theory for increasing nontraditional student retention and speaks nationally on this topic. Dr. Long holds a Doctorate of Education Degree in Community College Leadership from Oregon State University, a Master's of Education in School Counseling and Consultation from Northwest Christian University, and a Bachelor of Arts in Elementary Education from Northwest Christian University. She was the first to publish a national document entitled, "Community College Attrition of GED Certificate Holders and a Regular High School Graduates: A Competitive Study Using National BPS Data" that sought to compare national attrition rates of all students at the community college level.

"I'm pleased to see the release of Dr. Long's important book on "America's Forgotten Student Population," as broadening educational opportunities have become an important component to our future. The research and observations presented within regarding these opportunities – and the role mentoring plays – can only benefit generations to come."

- Dr. Nathan Whitaker, co-author of the New York Times bestsellers, "The Mentor Leader," "Quiet Strength," and "Through My Eyes"

ON THE COURSE WITH JASON

Dear Members,

The fall season is finally upon us which seems to have brought some dryer weather. This month, our goal is to remove all of the pine trees we lost from lightning strikes and beetle infestation on the course. There are some other trees that have been hollowed out that need to be removed before they fall over. We will also begin to trim trees and prune the roots of some of our larger trees. Along with the tree trimming we will also try to clean up landscape plants and beds, to the best of our ability.

There are also plans to continue the drainage efforts on holes such as #3 and #10. We are however limited on our supplies for these improvements. We do have some pipe and fittings around the shop and will try to piece together enough to help improve these areas. I believe with a few additions of some surface intakes and more arms of pipe, we can get these holes to dry out faster.

As for the greens this winter, we have struggled with nematodes and with low fertility all year. The second aerification has taken a long time to heal and we have not been able to verti-cut since this point. Our goal is to provide them with a good amount of fertility before they go dormant and hope to come out really strong in the spring. Nematodes slowdown in the winter and the Bayer chemical company has applied their trial product on a few of our greens, which has allowed some relief from the nematode pressure.

Recently, I have been asked a lot questions as to why we are completing certain projects over others that would usually be deemed more important on the priority list. Due to the tight financial crunch we are in, we do not have the tools to accomplish many projects that would improve some areas that need attention. In order to keep cost down, we are using materials we have in stock. Once the finances of the club are resolved, we will begin to work on more important areas such as the greens. I hope you enjoy the holidays.

Sincerely,
Jason Ward, CGCS
