Golf Tournament

Christopher's Story

Christopher Gage McCauley, son of Dave Wendt and Becky McCauley, was born on February 28th, 2002. He was a beautiful boy with blonde hair and blue eyes. On April 30th, 2005, Christopher was eating one of his favorite foods, a hot dog.

After taking a bite, a piece of hot dog became lodged in his throat, and he began choking. Despite the efforts of family, paramedics, and emergency room personnel, he didn't survive. He was such a special little boy who absolutely loved life and those around him. His smile would brighten up any room. After his passing, he was able to improve the lives of other young children through tissue donation. While nothing can bring him back, we can all do our part to raise awareness of choking hazards for children and the importance of organ and tissue donation. Our goal is to provide information on these topics, so that people can be better informed of safety issues and donation procedures.

You might save the life of someone you love.
