Turf Talk- Lee's Hill Agronomy

A much needed rain event fell on the property over the last 36 hours for a total of 2.6 inches. Even on dormant turf (fairways and tees) it is important to keep the root zone and other below ground plant parts hydrated. This helps with spring green up and helps with overall plant function.

Greens:

Overall they are better. However, this because during fall month, the emergence of poa annua is apparent. I would estimate our poa population to be 60% at least. As we move forward in to next year, an aggressive interseeding will be happening when the soil temperature reach 55 degrees. This process happens at the same time as growth regulation applications are made to the putting surfaces which favors the development and lateral movement of the bentgrass. Over time the goal is to reduce the poa population and increase the bentgrass percentages.

Traffic control:

Most have noticed the small green and white stakes on the approach. This accomplishes two things; they indicate the end of the fairway and where the approach start and also identify the exit point for golf cars. No carts should be on the turf past this point including blue flag carts.

Bunkers and other planned work:

Bunker work is ongoing and very time consuming. When the work schedule allows, we will continue this process.

We have started native area clearing. Also another slow process but when done it will present a clean look and improve line of sight.

The maintenance staff wishes everyone a happy holiday season. See you on the course!
