Pole Creek Golf Club Wins 6 Readers' Choice Awards.

Colorado golfers have spoken and they love playing Pole Creek Golf Club.

Pole Creek was awarded six Readers' Choice Awards in the latest issue of Colorado Avid Golfer magazine, including runner-up designation as Colorado's Best Public Mountain Course. Colorado duffers also voted Pole Creek as the state's third best course in the $50-$99 green fee range.

"These awards from readers of Colorado's foremost golf publication indicate Pole Creek is valued as one of the state's finest golf experiences," said Larry Burks, general manager. "Our marketing program entices people to play here and golfers like the course so much they're telling others."

Following is a list of the Readers' Choice designations awarded to Pole Creek Golf Club by Avid Golfer magazine:

- 2nd Place– Best Public Mountain Course
- 3rd Place– Best Course ($50-$99)
- 3rd Place– Most Underrated Course (Public or Resort)
- 4th Place– Most Scenic Course (Public or Resort)
- 5th Place– Best Course to Bring Out-of-Staters (public or Resort)
- 4th Place– Best Finishing Hole (Public or Resort)

Pole Creek is scheduled to open its 27 holes of Classic Mountain Golf in mid-May or earlier. "Opening day is weather dependent, so stay tuned," says Burks.

Resident ID holders will receive expanded privileges this season including unlimited rounds and no limit on season passes for property owners in the Fraser Valley Metropolitan Recreation District. Golfers can purchase passes, sign up for tee-times and enter a contest for a free Titlist driver online at www.polecreekgolf.com.

"We're continuing our drive to bring locals back to Pole Creek this season," explained Burks. Grand County residents can be proud to have one of the Colorado's best golf courses in their backyard."

Pole Creek is the only Grand County course mentioned in the Avid Golfer survey, which was conducted online with the votes independently tabulated and audited, according to Avid Golfer magazine.
