OUR HISTORY

In 1988, sand dunes and the Missouri River set the stage for a vision to develop a master-planned business and residential community with a golf course as its centerpiece. Visionaries would endure a state boundary change, construction of an interstate interchange, purchasing of the Sioux City Boat Club and the challenge of building along the river in order to succeed. Today that vision is Dakota Dunes, South Dakota—home to the 18-hole Arnold Palmer designed golf course.

Dakota Dunes Country Club opened on August 14, 1991 nestled among the wooded dunes and along the Missouri River. An estimated 3,000 spectators watched as Arnold Palmer played the 18 holes at the private Club's grand opening. Following its inception, Dakota Dunes Country Club hosted ten professional golf tournaments including the Nike and Buy.com tournaments and has been rated best in the state by both Golf Digest and Golf Week.

In the summer of 2011 Dakota Dunes Country Club experienced the mighty Missouri as a flood forced an evacuation of the entire Dakota Dunes area. The course's grass died and four holes were damaged by the flood waters or in the construction of a levee built to protect the residents of Dakota Dunes. The Club reopened 16 holes throughout 2012 after reseeding the course with the newest hybrid of bent grass. Holes 17 and 18 were hardest hit; in coordinating efforts with Arnold Palmer Design Company, they were rebuilt bigger and better and were reopened in 2013—two years after the flood.

EXCEPTIONAL GOLF

Designed by golf legend Arnold Palmer, Dakota Dunes Golf Course boasts the newest hybrid of bent grass providing excellent play for all golfers. The 18 hole championship course encompasses 7,165 yards of fairways and greens dotted with lakes and many strategically located bunkers. The course, over 7 miles long forms a figure eight, no two holes run parallel. Dakota Dunes Country Club has been rated the best in the state by both Golf Digest and Golf Week and held a professional tour event for the first ten years after its inception.

Nestled among the wooded dunes and along the Missouri River, you find yourself in an environment that fosters love for the game.

A diamond in the Midwest.
