Engineers' fourteenth: "The two or twenty hole," per Bobby Jones

EAST COAST TRIPP

Oklahoma's Tripp Davis is the architect du jour at classic New York clubs. The former all-American met ex-U.S. Amateur quarterfinalist and present Engineers Country Club greens chairman Ed Gibstein three years ago while playing the Anderson Memorial tournament at Winged Foot. This led to Davis rebuilding the eighth green at Long Island's Engineers, the 1919 PGA Championship host. His well-received work led to an ongoing larger-scale re-Engineering and to other current jobs at Whippoorwill Club in Armonk and Manhasset's ultraexclusive Deepdale Golf Club. •
